Dear HS Direct.

Having shopped around for a management system, your Journal Express is by far the most complete solution for the money. All the other so called solutions look great only to find when you really want it to perform as you desire you must continually purchase add on's or pay monthly subscription fees. In the process of modifying and updating these other packages, you will have spent more than what even the higher priced option of your package costs. I strongly recommend others who are searching for a complete H&S solution to purchase the Journal Express software. The software is not just a template it is a complete working system.

The staff at HS Direct have created a great product. From beginners to pros, this package will give you the advantage over those using the more expensive, less adequate systems. The possibilities are pretty much endless, especially if you are a H&S professional, in addition, It provides a lower learning curve for the beginner. The support is excellent. They continually update the software with new functionality. Making an already excellent product, better with each update. What more can we say, it really is the best product for the cost bar none.

Kind Regards
